LAWRENCEBURG MAN BELIEVED VICTIM OF WHISKEY BANDITS

Found Shot to Death Just Outside Old Joe Distillery This Morning —Great Indignation Over — Assasination

APPARENTLY NO LIQUOR TAKEN FROM PLANT'S 1,200 BARRELS

By Assosiated Press.

LAWRENCEBURG, Jan 12—Believed to be a victim of whiskey bandits, Burdette M. Huffaker, 62, for 25 years storekeeper gauger in the government revenue service, was found shot to death early today just outside the door of Old Joe Distillery, seven miles southwest of here on Gilbert's Creek, where he was assigned to night duty. He was shot twice. One bullet severed his spine. A searching investigation is on. The assassination of Huffaker, a substantial citizen of Lawrenceburg, aroused great indignation. He had been dead several hours when found by guard E. H. Harrs, who was to relieve him.

The victim was at a plant which houses 1,200 barrels of whiskey. So far as is ascertained none of it was taken. It is believed the slayers beat a hasty retreat after shooting Huffaker. The theory is the act was committed by thieves who intended to overpower Huffaker and then loot the warehouse. The theory was strengthened when it was found that telephone wires were cut and a window in the office partly raised. Apparently Huffaker surprised them and they shot him and fled.

No reference was made to the business of the railroad officials who were here in their private car. They declared themselves highly pleased with the city and with the recration furnishd them by their local friends.

Judge Joseph F. Bosworth is in receipt of a letter from F. D. Sampson of Barbourville, recently made chief justice of the State Supreme Court, thanking the members of the Middlesboro bar for the flowers which he received from them on the occasion of his assuming the new office. Judge Sampson is well known and greatly esteemed here, and his ascendency to this high office was very gratifying to Middlesboro people. The letter of thanks follows:

Won't you please convey to each of the contributors to this beautiful remembrance my sincerest regards and best wishes, and tell them how much I appreciate it all. You and your friends never forget to do the beautiful thing.

With best wishes, I am

EXPECT HIGH SCHOOL TO BE COMPLETED IN MARCH

The roof of the new high school building is practically finished and it is thought by the builders that the building will be entirely completed early in March.

The concrete will be poured for the lower floor within a few days, after which work on the interior will be rapidly pushed to completion. The plumbing and heating work which is being done under the direction of John Burnett is progressing nicely. The glass will be put in the windows at an early date.

Work on the new building has been greatly aided by favorable weather. Should this continue, there is little doubt that early spring will see the completion of the new building

The barber shop and the loan shop operated by Roy Ball and Floyd Ball respectfully, in the Wabash hotel building have ceased to do business. It is said that no plans have been made to establish another business there.

Hart Williams, who has been in the Brosheer-Brummett hospital several weeks suffering from a broken leg caused by a falling tree, returned home yesterday.

Fred R. Whalin of the Bell County Lumber company left yesterday for South Pittsburg, Tenn., where he has a new lumber yard in charge of B. H. Bentley, formerly of Middlesboro.

INCOME TAXES FOR YEAR PAYABLE NOW

Blanks Already Mailed to Some—Reports Must Be in By March 15

Income taxes for this year are due and payable now. Blanks have already been mailed to those who made reports last year, according to postmaster, Charles E. Cooke. These should be properly filled out and mailed with the amount of the tax to R. H. Lucas, income tax collector, Louisville.

A representative of the income tax department will be here at the post-office building about March 1. He will assist those who have difficulty with their report. Reports must be made before March 15.

All single persons who have an income in excess of $1,000 per year and all married persons whose annual incomes are more than $2,000 are required to make a report, regardless of whether they have exemptions or not. An exemption of $200 is allowed for each dependent. The fact that no blank is received is no excuse for failing to make a return. Blanks will be furnished on application to the income tax department at Louisville.

MANY PATRONS OF LOCAL LIBRARY

Report Shows 12,356 Books Issued Last Year, Nearly Half to Children

Records of the Carnegie Library show that 12,356 books were issued during the past year. A total of 814 subscribers are on the list now.

That children form no small part of the reading public is indicated by the fact that more than 5,000 of the books issued were in the juvenile class. Though the greater part of the books issued to adults were of fiction, many of the more serious are being read, according to Mrs. T. D. Arnold, librarian. The Harvard Classics seem to lead among the works of higher literature.

More books are issued on Sunday than any other day, 75 or more usually being given out. Of course the number of persons who patronize the library cannot be computed by the number of books issued, as many go there and read who do not take the books home with them.

The amount of money collected from delinquent subscribers is comparatively small, being only $60 during the past year. A fee of three cents per day is charged for each book after it is kept out longer than the time limit

As the local library has not been catalogued among the accredited libraries previous to the past year, no records as to the number of books issued were kept and it is impossible to compare records It is thought, however, that there is a slight increase in the number issued.

CALLS BUILDING PROSPECTS GOOD

Lumber Man From Atlanta Says Demand in South Unprecedented For Time of Year

"Building prospects for Middlesboro and elsewhere look very good this year," said W. L. Adams, who is connected with a large wholesale and retail lubmer business in Atlanta, Ga., a similar business in Norton, Va., and several other cities including the Bell County Lumber and Coal company of this city

Mr. Adams says that the lumber business is fairly steady, though a little on the rise Unprecedented demands, for this time of year, are being made on the lumber yards in nearly all of thesouthern cities, he stated. By next spring it is thought that a real building boom will be in cities of the south.

The companies with which he is connected have salesmen who visit all of the southern cities and he is in a position to speak with some authoritativeness on the subject of lumber and building in general.

"Our southern forests will be exhausted within fifteen years if the presnt inroads on our lumber resources continue," he said, in speaking of the movement for forest conservation being agitated in some of the southern states. "When these finally disappear we will be compelled to obtain our supplies from the great forests of the west."

The best of the timber has already been used from our neighboring hills, he stated. While there is still excellent timber in the surrounding country, it is usually in places that are almost inaccessible Lumbermen who have ruthlessly slaughtered the young trees and converted them into lumber are largely responsible for the crease in good timber trees.

Most of the lumber sold by the local lumber yards for building purposes is being shipped from Alabama, Mississippi and other southern states. The hard-wood lumber manufactured in this section is used mainly for making furniture.

Mr. Adams is leaving today for another city where he has lumber interests.

EVANGELIST SPEAKS ON REGENERATION

Shows That New Birth is More Than Morality—Subject Tonight Is Repentance

Moved by the truth and earnestness of the appeal of Dr. Finley F. Gibson, requests for prayer were ade by fifteen persons at the First Baptist church last night, and two young mn were converted.

"Anything that you get you can lose,' he said, during the course of his powerful sermon on "Regeneration," 'getting' religion is not a new birth; it has nothing to do with it. The religion that endures is the religion that gets you."

Morality is not the new birth and will not aid in salvation, according to the minister, and a man may do his duty to his family, his fellowmen and obey the laws of his country and still be a sinner in the sight of God.

"You might put a sinner in his carnal state in heaven and it would be hell to him," he declared. "If you could empty all the pool rooms in Middesboro and run the men into church here tonight and make them stay through the service, they would be in torment the entire time. Man in his natural and carnal state wants to be in hell."

Dr. Gibson spoke of the college students who are disbelievers when thy leave the institutions. "There is no one on earth who thinks he knows more than the average college student. I know, for I have been one myself."

Services were held this morning at 10 o'clock as usual. The subject for tonight will be "Repentance" and for Saturday night it will be "The Second Coming of Jesus Christ." There will be no service Saturday morning.

A large crowd attended the revival services last night. The seating capacity of the auditorium had to be supplanted with chairs. Dr. Gibson is not sensational in his preaching. He speaks with force and frankness hitting the sinner and the inactive church member alike. The singing service which is directed by Rev. J. Fred Scholfield each evening, is a great drawing card for the meeting

RUM FLEET OF 22 VESSELS BOBS UP OFF SANDY HOOK

Carriers From New York Meet Ships—Take Much Liquor to Shore Before Dry Squadron Stops Them

VESSELS PRESUMABLY HAIL FROM BAHAMAS

By Associated Press

HIGHLANDS, N. J., Jan. 12.—A great rum fleet of 22 vessels which bobbed up yesterday off Sandy Hook, while the New York dry naval squadron was being reorganized, is still standing off this coast today ready for business as usual. While prohibition forces were taking to New York four small boats captured last night while attempting to land liquor from the mother ships, the rest of the welcoming fleet of fifty were racing back and forth between the rum carriers. The rum fleet is presumably hailing from the Bahamas. It still had a vast stock to dispose of to bidders. The liquor landed last night was reported sent to other cities by motor trucks.

Mr. Ralston returned last night with his car which had suffered no damages. The members of the gang have not yet been apprehended. It is thought that they passed Chattanooga without going through it after they had broken into a garage at Athens and stolen a car.

A THOUGHT

Say ye to the righteous that it shall be well with him; for they shall eat of the fruit of their doings.—Isaiah 3:10.

The virtuous delight in the virtuous; but he who is destitute of the practice of virtue delighteth not in the virtuous. The bee retireth from the forest to the lotus, whilst the dog is destitute of shelter. —Hippaidesa.

STARTING HEALTHIEST BUSINESS PERIOD

Time is a great healer and the year 1922 has been a great business healer. After a thorough housecleaning, business is beginning to reap the benefits of more efficient management. Present conditions seem to indicate that we are entering the healthiest period in the business cycle.

The past year has brought many changes in business, and most of them for the better. Just a few comparisons with conditions a year ago serve to illustrate the encouraging results produced by the year's activities. At this time last year, iron and steel production was hovering around 30 per cent of normal, and the industry experienced considerable difficulty in holding its own at that figure. Today it is reported to be in a better position than at any time during the past two years. When winter ended lake shipping a year ago, shipments showed a heavy loss. Final returns for the season just closed indicate big gains. Homes have been built. Construction has extended to investment types and is continuing in heavy volume in spite of winter weather. In December 1921 the coal industry was face to face with the possibility of a railroad strike. This industry at the present time, although still handicapped by lack of shipping facilities, is gradually recovering from the effects of the coal miner's strike and the heavy demand is being fairly well supplied. With the large production of principal farm crops and the advance in farm product prices, conditions in the agricultural sections are growing brighter.

These are only a few of the changes for the better which have taken place, and when cognizance is taken of the obstacles which have been met, they are especially encouraging.

The human or emotional element is too often overlooked in business calculations. Feeling that if we better knew how people were traveling, were ordering their meals, being amused, and doing their Christmas shopping, we would better know whether we are entering the new year with greater sanity, we made a survey of the travel bureaus and steamship agencies, the hotels, the theaters and the department stores, and discovered some very interesting facts.

The travel bureaus say that previously people were more restless they wanted to travel and they did, irrespective of rates or routes. Now, people are using more discrimination concerning their destinations, they want to assure themselves that they are choosing exactly what meets their needs and pocketbooks. In a good many cases they choose to travel under pullman tourists rates instead of the standard rates. The railroad is the same. The Pullman standard rate to California, for instance, is $23.00; the tourist rate is $17.00. The difference is in the fact that the Pullman is upholstered in better plush, the porters probably more attentive, the service throughout a bit better. But many choose the other, preferring to save difference.

The steamship agencies report the people are more conservative in their choice of transportation. During the inflationary period, price was the standard by which things were chosen. They had money and no matter what price the rooms were, they wanted them, for they seemed to think the more expensive the rooms, the more they were getting for their money. Rooms at any price was their cry. Now, while they still seek for comfort and luxury, they go slower and look about and compare and try to find if they can't get this comfort for a little less expense. They don't seem to feel as they did that price is the standard. They used to feel if a thing was expensive, that made it good, and they wanted it, price being no object.

People traveling by steamer have shown a tendency lately to chose one class steamers. That is, boats which do not distinguish between first, second and third class. They don't seem to be so feverish about "getting there" is evidenced by this. The extra seven or eight days on the water is chosen by them, with the consequent saving of money, to taking a faster boat and one more expensive.

The hotels state that it is difficult to get data on the daily ordering of meals, but it has been noticed that traveling men study the menu more closely than previously, and do not order the most expensive dishes in the profusion which they once did.

People deciding to have dinner parties are more inclined to "shop around" than before. Formerly when they wished a dinner party they merly gave an order. Now they prepare a sample menu and send it to the different hotels, ask for bids, and compare the prices before they decide. Neither are they inclined to entertain as elaborately as they did heretofore.

The theater managers say that their patrons are hard to satisfy, and are demanding better plays and features. Nine months ago a change was noted from the hysterical to the more sane type of entertainment. Since that time there ha sbeen more shopping at the box office. Formerly the most frequent request heard at the office was, "Give me the best seat in the house." Today the query is, "What's the price of orchestra seats, of front row balcony, etc."

If this is a true reflection of the attitude of the general public, the new year can be entered with much confidence and with little of the fear which has attended the beginning of the past two years. These reflections would indicate that there is less danger that the effect on the public of greater prosperity will induce the extravagances and hectic conditions of 1918 and 1919.—Monthly Business Review.

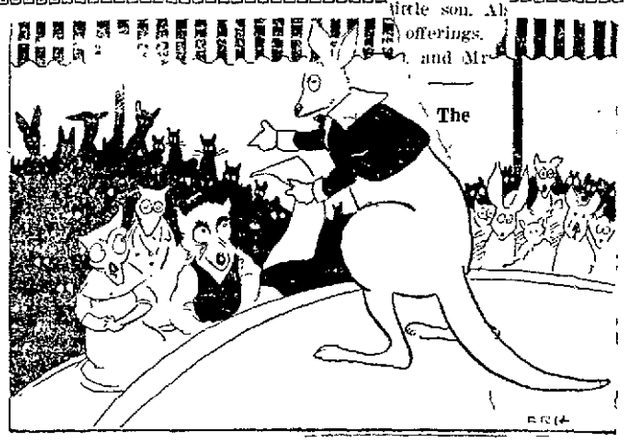
Adventures of T[w]ins

By Olive Roberts B[arton]



Nancy and Nick and Dusty Coat called all the Dreamland people around them.

"I wonder what's going to happen next!" whispered Wally Woodchuck to Scramble Squirrel. Scramble had only come for a week's stay, but Wally intended to stay all winter. Some people are luckier than others. Just like going on a two weeks' vacation and finding that everybody else can stay as long as he likes.

Well, anyway, Nancy and Nick had an idea and called everybody to hear it.

"We're going to have school," Nancy announced.

"Oh, shucks!" said Wally to Scramble. "That isn't what I came for."

"Me either," agreed Scramble, edging closer the better to hear.

"Don't look so cross everybody!" laughed Nancy. "This is a new kind of school It is a school where everybody may talk as much as he likes and say anything he pleases. I'll be teacher and Nick will be principal. Everybody sit down please."

So everybody sat down.

"Mr. Jack Jumping Mouse will please recite!" she went on.

Jack Jumping Mouse now grown as large as a kangaroo since he came to Dreamland, got up. Then he looked about cautiously. "It's about Ceasar the Cat I wish to speak," he whispered, "and I don't wish him to hear. Has he gone yet??"

"Yes!" spoke up Dusty Coat, the fairy sandman. "He only comes and goes when he's taking short cat naps. Besides he always changes to Puss-in-Boots when he comes. But he never stays long."

"Then," said Jack Jumping Mouse, jumping up to the platform, "this is my speech:

"I dislike owls, also the cat.
For they've both found out where I live at.
I wish in Dreamland I could stay.
For it's safer than the meadow and a stack of hay.'

"That's all I know," said he with a bow.

"Fine!" cried everybody, clapping.

CHINATOWN ALICE, who says Kate's dead husband.

DAN WARD, was father of Alice's child.

Dorothy. A few nights later Kate and her father are left by their dog, MONK, to a lonely gully, where they find an unconscious man. Carried by them to their home, he recovers, gives his name as JAMES LATHAM, and remaining with them during the period of his convalescence, evidently is much attracted to Kate.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

It was the third day of James Latham's stay at Justin Parsons' cottage. Kate and he were sitting on the grass under the pines. Monk dozed at Kate's side.

"But for this old boy I suppose I might be in the bottom of that gully yet," Latham was thinking aloud.

"But for him," echoed Kate.

"I wonder why it happened so?" she said. "Why your car had to spill there and Monk had to find you and everything?

"It happened for some reason," Kate continued after a pause. "I think nothing ever happens without a reason. It is all to work out some plan arranged for each of us before we're born."

Silence.

Shadows were long on the grass. Sounds of evening were in the air.

At length young Latham spoke.

"I know why," his voice was low, throaty, beautiful. "I know why—so that I should have some one to call Lady Fair!"

Kate looked at the youth. His face was earnest.

"You mustn't talk to me—like that." It hurt to rebuke him even slightly.

"But I can't talk any other way—to you. I've known you for three days, and for three days I've adored you. It isn't a fleeting thing, Lady Fair. It's something that's rooted deep in me—it was there from the very beginning, but I didn't know it, of course, until I saw you."

Kate felt panicky as she listened to the youth. She was three years older than he but he seemed so sure of himself that he frightened her. Was she going to care for him? She wondered. Was the whole foundation upon which she had built her life with Dan toppling? Was her theory of one love all through life, after all, only a theory which wasn't going to work out even in her own case?

That James Latham was attractive to her she couldn't deny. Could he, would he, give her the unshared love which she now believed she had never had from Dan? There was a trace of bitterness in her thought of Dan just then. And suddenly the mocking face of Alice took shape in her mental vision.

"Lady Fair," the words, in James Latham's voice, were a caress.

Kate trembled as the vision of Alice stayed. The youth felt the tremor in the fingers which he held.

"Lady Fair—my Lady Fair." he repeated. And then, "You've never called me anything—won't you call me Jim. Lady Fair?"

"Jim?" half frightened.

"Jim, yes, yes, I'll call you Jim!" There was a ripple in Kate's voice as she spoke. Young Latham took it for an emotion in which he was concerned. Kate knew it was something else.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Darkens Beautifully and Restores Its Natural Color and Lustre At Once

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients a large bottle, at little cost, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.

RED PEPPERS END RHEUMATIC PAINS

When you are suffering with rheumatism so you can hardly get around just try Red Pepper Rub and you will have the quickest relief known.

Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers. Instant relief. Just as soon as you apply Red Pepper Rub you feel the tingling heat. In three minutes it warms the sore spot through and through. Frees the blood circulation, breaks up the congestion—and the old rheumatism torture is gone.

Rowles Red Pepper Rub, made from red peppers, costs little at any drug store. Get a jar at once. Use it for lumbago, neuritis, backache, stiff neck, sore muscles, colds in chest. Almost instant relief awaits you. Be sure to get the genuine, with the name Rowles on each package.

Over Night, A Rose

That over night a rose could come,
I one time did believe,
For when the fairies live with one.
They wilfully deceive.

But now I know this perfect thing
Under the frozen sod.
In cold and storm grew patiently.
Obedient to God.

My wonder grows, since knowledge came
Old fancies to dismiss.
And courage comes. Was not the rose
A winter doing this?

Nor did it know, the weary while
What color or perfume
With this completed loveliness
Lay in that earthly tomb.

So maybe I, who cannot see
What God wills not to show,
May some day bear a rose for Him
It took my life to grow.

Good Manners

At the theatre or opera, good form decrees evening dress to those in the boxes, although less elaborate than for the ball or party.

In the orchestra, full or semi-evening attire is appropriate, but in the cheaper seats plain street dress should be worn, anything more elaborate being bad form.

For the matinee, a simple street dress of dark material is suitable, except that, in summer, one may wear dainty fabrics of light color.

Mrs. Alice Fletcher Secretly Married

Friends of Mrs. Alice Fletcher will be surprised to learn she was quietly and secretly married to Tom Morris at Cumberland Gap on November 20, Magistrate R. W. Brooks officiating.

She guarded her secret well and though a few of her intimate girl friends suspected, none of them knew the couple had married. Being in a confidential mood yesterday afternoon, she admitted the fact to a friend and told her she might make the information public.

Mr. Norris is a brick contractor and it was when he came here to work on the new school building last year that he and Mrs. Fletcher met. After their marriage they went to Chattanooga where their home is. Mrs. Norris, who is well known in Middlesboro having lived here two years before here marriage, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Oxford, of Norton Va. She has been visiting here since Tuesday and returned to Chattanooga this morning.

Dr. Anna Veech To Speak Here

Next Monday evening, in connection with the children's part of the program at the Parent Teachers Association monthly meeting, Dr. Anna Veech, of Louisville will make a short talk on Child Welfare work. Every parent in Middlesboro, every member of the Woman's Club, every member of the League of Women Voters, is urged to attend this meeting.

TODAY'S RECIPES

MALBOROUGH PIE
By Bertha E. Shapleigh, Of Columbia University

Malborough pie evedidently is no new type; recipes for it are found in old English books

Any good paste is used to line the plate and lattice it across the top.

The filling for two pies is as follows:

2 cups applesauce of 6 good, tart, well-flavored apples, washed, pared, cooked and rutted through a sieve
3-4 cup sugar
3-4 cup butter
1-4 teaspoon salt
Grated rind and juice of 1-2 lemon
Yolks of 5 eggs or 5 whole eggs

Turn into plates lined with the paste and lattice with strips of paste. Bake in a moderately hot oven 30 minutes, or until the filling is firm.

If desired the whites of the eggs may be reserved and a meringue made by beating them stiffly and adding 3-4 cup of sugar. Flavor with 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, divide equally between the two pies after they are baked, then return to oven and cook eight minutes, being careful that the meringue does not brown.

Of course, when the meringue is used, the tops of the pies are not latticed.

The most expensive thing on earth is the upkeep on a marriage license.

Many a plan to get rich has a poor ending.

FIERY, ITCHY SKIN QUICKLY SOOTHED BY THIS SULPHUR

Mentho-Sulphur, a pleasant cream, will soothe and heal skin that is irritated or broken out with eczema; that is covered with ugly rash or pimples, or is rough or dry. Nothing subdues fiery skin eruptions so quickly, says a noted skin specialist.

The moment this sulphur preparation is applied the itching stops and after two or three applications, the eczema is gone and the skin is delightfully clear and smooth. Sulphur is so precious as a skin remedy because it destroys the parasites that cause the burning, itching or disfigurement. Mentho-Sulphur always heals eczema right up.

A small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur may be had at any good drug store.
